Dulness of Country Life.
Owing to the general decay of the old English country fairs and fests, of which the dates were for centuries as familiar as those of Lady Day or Michaelmas, life in many country districts has probably been duller during the past half century than it ever was before.

Simply because you bow to John Smith every morning, don't get the notion into your head that his wife knows about all the attractive articles you have to sell. She expects you to let her know about them in the columns of the local newspaper.

Church at Milton Junction Held Its Annual Reunion Last Saturday and Sunday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Milton Junction, July 16.—The Homecoming of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was here last Saturday and Sunday and despite the heat and the fact that it was the busy season with the farmers, it was well attended. These will be admitted to the church fellowship Sunday, together with some others who will be received by letter. The SPECTRAL GAMBLER

It was in February, 1881. I was spending the winter season at San Remo and lived in a fine room on the second floor of the Hotel Duropo. I used to visit Monte Carlo repeatedly and to play roulette and usually with the same result. I returned to San Remo, with empty pockets.

One evening I came back from such an excursion and went to bed with fixed conclusions never again to try the roulette.

Everything in my room was as usual. At the side of my bed stood a little table with a marble top and on this was a china candlestick. At the bottom of the candle and on the top of the candlestick was a round piece of glass through which the candle was stuck.

I noticed that it was in good shape and had no crack when I put a new candle in.

I had a peculiar feeling when I was about to blow the light out. I smelled the smoke of gunpowder and had the idea as if somebody was in the room.

I looked everywhere and could not find anything suspicious or any trace of smoke, and laughing about my own foolishness, I lay down to sleep. But although I was very tired I could not sleep, and half awake and half dreaming, I saw the roulette table before me and many players around it.

One individual, a man who looked like an army officer, attracted my attention. He was pale as a ghost and seemed to try hard to hide his nervousness. He continuously turned the ends of his mustache and when he made his play and placed his money, and the croupier had taken it away he smiled grimly and finally having apparently lost his last five francs placed his rose and left the table.

Then I fell asleep. I dreamed that the man whom I had seen was in my room and looking at me sternly. I saw a little hole in his forehead and a drop of blood coming out of it.

Suddenly I woke up. I had heard the sound of falling glass. I made a light and found the glass piece which had been on the candlestick broken in two pieces on the marble plate of the little table. I wondered how this could have happened, as the candlestick was not thrown over by me while I was sleeping and the candle was still sticking in it.

On the next morning I met a friend, a German count, who had a nice villa in the outskirts of the city.

I told him my experience, and he found it very peculiar. Of course I did not tell him of my vision of the roulette table and about my dream.

In a joking kind of way he remarked: "Well, I think the Polish army officer who committed suicide in your room a fortnight ago is probably to blame for the broken glass. He went broke in Monte Carlo and probably wanted to break something in return."

I did not say anything further about the matter, but when I came to my room I investigated the little table carefully and lifted the marble plate. To my surprise I found eight numbers written upon the bottom of it.

Should the dream, the breaking of the glass and the finding of the numbers have a connection? I copied the numbers and went to Monte Carlo to play them.

But I was ashamed of myself, and did not put a silver piece on the table.

The croupier called out "No. 16." That was the first number on my paper slip. I smiled; an accident, I thought. Then came No. 2, the second number on my slip. I was surprised and became so nervous that I could not move. The third number of my slip came, and in succession the rest of the eight.

Now, I was overcome by the thought of having missed the chance to win a fortune.

When I slept in my room the following night I saw the Polish officer extending his hand to me, he said: "Well done, young man. Resist all temptation and let the game alone."

I could not touch a card any more and once when I was to join in a poker game I felt a cold hand holding mine, and I excused myself. I hope the poor soul of the suicide may have found its rest.

About Aluminum.

Though aluminum takes first rank among metals for lightness, combined with toughness and durability, it is hardly what one would expect to prove useful as a textile material, but the articles now made from it include neckties, handkerchiefs, shoes, belts, neckties, shawls and hats. Straps and linings for shoes are among the newest productions. Sleeves or screens from aluminum have proven especially valuable in sugar refining, as it quickly becomes coated with acid, resisting acids; and it can be woven alone into fabrics for other purposes.

The best results, however, are obtained by employing the aluminum yarn—smooth or twisted—as warp, with colored silk threads for weft. When this cloth is made into cloaks or theatrical costumes the effect is very striking, and the body of a beautiful woman is said to look as though dipped in silver. Fabrics and cloths from glass and silk threads woven together attracted much attention when exhibited in Paris some years ago.

Facts From Ford NUMBER ONE

Series Consists of Nine. No. Two Monday.

Light as the Ford Car is, 1200 lbs., it is no lighter in proportion than a passenger engine of the accepted highest type. The 5000 H. P. Pacific locomotive used on the Pennsylvania Lines West weighs 53.8 lbs. per horse power. The Model "T" weighs 53.3 lbs. per horse power. Each is designed by an engineering expert for passenger service. On the other hand, the average freight engine, as well as a large proportion of automobiles, weighs from 85 to 100 lbs. per horse power. Note the difference?

The Overland's War On Cost

The most significant event in the past year of motordom has been the Overland's war on cost. Millions have been invested—myriads of costly machines installed—to give you better cars for less money.

For years the main problem in automobiles was to create a perfect machine, regardless of cost. But that was pretty well solved—by a dozen good makers—before the Overland entered the field. This is a new era and the new problem is to minimize the cost. The rivalries of the future will be in economies. The car which leads from this time on will be the car which gives the most for the money.

It is there that the Overland has outstripped its rivals. On these lines it has gained a leading place in the field. It has done more than all others to lessen the cost of making good automobiles. This has required an army of experts and millions of dollars. It has compelled the abandonment of hundreds of old machines. It has required the building of countless machines to perform each operation in the most exact economical way.

But the cost of Overlands has been cut 20 per cent within the last year alone. And every cent of the saving has gone to Overland buyers. As a result, Overland sales for the current year will exceed $21,000,000.

A 25-horsepower Overland sells for $1,000 this year. It has a 102-inch wheelbase—a possible speed of 50 miles per hour.

A 40-horsepower Overland with single rumble seat sells for $1250. The wheelbase is 112 inches. Every price includes magnets and gas lamps.

So with every model. The man who knows cars is always amazed when he sees what the Overland gives for the money.

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS

What Do You Do With Your Tires When You Have a Cut or a Blowout in Them?

Do you lace a boot over the outside or do you place a sleeve inside to hold your tube from blowing out?

Do you do either of these or do you have it repaired right? Do you make one of these emergency repairs do you till your tire becomes water-soaked and sand-blistered; till it needs a re-tread or a re-build or is beyond repair? Do you do this or do you have it vulcanized—fixed right?

EMERGENCY BOOTS ON TIRES HARMFUL

Do you keep on using these emergency repairs till your tires are all covered with unsightly patches and bumps and riding in your car is like bumping the bumps at a ten cent amusement park? Do you do this or do you have a nice, neat repair job done, a job that will not be seen except upon a close examination, a job that will hold as long as your tire lasts, a job that preserves and lengthens the life of your tire?

A boot or shoe is a mighty fine thing to have in case of an accident and it really is a cheap repair. BUT does it pay you in the long run to keep it on instead of taking it off as soon as you get home and having a first class section put in, a section that will not come out and is guaranteed not to give way? It does not.

HERE'S WHY IT DOES NOT PAY

Suppose you use a boot. A boot not only detracts from the appearance of your car and makes a good car look cheap, but it positively and surely ruins your tire. You might as well be driving your tires over stones the size of teacups as to keep pounding that boot into your tire every time the wheel goes round. The effect is the same. It bruises and breaks the fabric till the plies are separated and your tire is in bad shape—fit for the junk pile or in need of far more costly repair than when you applied the boot.

Besides pounding your tire to pieces a boot allows sand and water to work between it and the tire. The water soaks into the open fabric at the break till it rots it and makes it easy for the sand that has gathered beneath the boot to force itself farther between the plies of fabric or between the tread and carcass till the tread is loose or the fabric rotted, separated and your tire ruined.

THE SAME MAY BE SAID OF INNER TUBES.

An inside shoe or sleeve is little better or little worse than the outside boot. In the case of the sleeve the cut in the tire picks up a little sand, water and mud at every turn of the wheel. The cut becomes clogged with it and every time the hole full of dirt and grit and sand hits the ground the weight of the car compresses it. It must go somewhere and it gradually works back in between the plies of fabric. You grind in valves with every dust, so why shouldn't sand cut rubber? IT DOES and is probably the cause of more tire trouble than any other one thing you motorists have to contend with except improper inflation.

THE QUESTION OF COST—PROMPT SERVICE

Which is the cheapest, Mr. Auto Owner—a cheap job and a cheap looking car and ruined tires or an A1 up-to-the-minute vulcanized repair?

It's up to you, Mr. Business Man Auto Owner. Can you afford to have your machine seen on the streets of Janesville with a clown tire on one wheel and the other looking like a cat chasing a rat around?

We repair white tread tires with white rubber, not black, and black tires with black rubber, not white, making your tires all the same color.

Why not give us a call? We're HERE in Janesville. No more need to send your tires away and have to pay express charges, besides having long annoying waits. Tube repairs left before noon can be had in the evening of the same day.

Sectional jobs 4 to 6 days. Retreads one week. Open evenings. Charges are reasonable.

HUGE OIL COMBINE FORMED IN LONDON

STANDARD COMPANY HAS BIG COMPETITOR IN NEW ORGANIZATION.

UNTERMYER MAKES THE DEAL

American and English Capitalists With $20,000,000 Subscribed Aim to Secure All Producing Lands in Oklahoma and California.

London, July 16.—American and English capitalists have formed in this city one of the largest organizations that the Standard Oil company ever had to compete with. Samuel Untermyer, the New York lawyer who engineered the combination, represented the Americans in the deal.

Twenty million dollars have been subscribed to begin operations, $5,000,000 of it being put in cash by English members. This has been shipped to America to be used, it is understood, to purchase or secure options on every available oil producing property in Oklahoma. But this will be only a part of the properties, as the members of the syndicate own immense tracts of developed land in California, which are already yielding a large revenue.

Big Pipe Line to Be Built. The scheme also includes the building of the largest pipe line in the country from the Oklahoma properties.

Mr. Untermyer has been at the hotel for several days, but left for Brussels and Carlsbad today.

Mr. Untermyer refused to give the details of the organization, but admitted the nature of his business in London, and said that the necessary English gold had already gone to America. He said also that the entire project was independent of Standard Oil operations.

"There is room enough for everybody," he said, "and I am sure this will prove to be a tremendous business success."

Mr. Untermyer would not give the names of the American members, saying it would be inadvisable before the project is further under way. It is learned also that all the English members are connected with London banking houses.

It was addressed to the stockholders of the company, its employees and the public. In it he said the demands of the men were unfair and a penalty for former liberal treatment of its employees.

President A. E. Garretson of the Order of Railway Conductors, also gave out a statement in which he said that all the men insisted upon was that the code of rules that obtained upon every other railroad in the country should be applied on the Pennsylvania without a reduction in the present rate of wages.

President M'Cree's statement says: "It should be clearly understood that it is not less hours of labor demanded by the conductors and trainmen, but, on the contrary, what they do demand is more money for every hour they work than is paid by other railroads in this territory."

Hope for Arbitration.

While both sides are disinclined to yield there is still hope among conservative railroad men that a settlement will be reached. Great hope is placed in the Erdman arbitration act, which has brought many other railroad wage troubles to an end, and it is believed that great pressure will be brought on one side or both to take advantage of this law.

Mears, Garretson and Leo absolutely refused to give out any information of the situation on the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh. If a strike should come it is believed that the entire system would be involved. It was suggested that the lack of developments on the east lines is due to the negotiations still in progress on the lines west.

JUDGE GIVES ROYAL ARCANUM HARD BLOW

New York Supreme Court Declares Society Cannot Raise Rates Without Members' Permission.

New York, July 16.—That the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum cannot raise the rate of assessment without the permission from the members of the order, is the decision of Supreme Court Justice Kelly handed down in Brooklyn.

It is believed that the decision deals a hard blow to the order. The case was brought to the attention of the court by Samuel Green of Brooklyn, who is a member of the DeWitt Clinton council No. 1, and who at one time held one of the highest positions in the council.

In deciding in favor of the plaintiff Justice Kelly declares that the society cannot assume an unlimited reserved power to increase the amount of assessment to an extent which might be prohibitive and could only result in depriving the individual of his membership. The court also finds that any agreement upon the part of a member at the date of his admission to be governed by the law and regulations of the organization then in force is not sufficient to warrant the society in increasing the amount of individual assessments.

Justice Kelly holds that clearly no bargain was made or contemplated by the council when Green joined, the order whereby the society might increase the premium to any amount.

Candidate for Register of Deeds

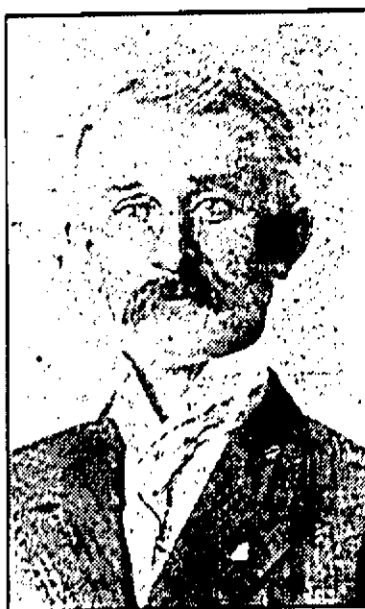

In announcing that I am a candidate for Register of Deeds for Rock county I wish to thank all my friends who so highly honored me by their votes at the Primaries two years ago, giving me a majority in twenty precincts out of thirty-six.

Although defeated, I received the majority in the cities of Janesville, Edgerton, Evansville, Orfordville, and thirteen Townships out of twenty in Rock county.

This endorsement, coming largely from my friends near home, was very gratifying to me as an expression of your confidence and again I thank you and believe that you together with many who did not support me two years ago but have already signified their intention to do so this year, will give me success at the Primaries September 6th, 1910.

BEEF INQUIRY TO BE SECRET.

Government Investigators Decide to Bar Public from Quiz.

Chicago, July 16.—Secrecy is to be the keynote of the federal grand jury investigation of the packers.

Judge Landis, District Attorney Sims and assistants and W. S. Kenyon, assistant to Attorney General Wickersham, believes that better results will be had if the progress of the inquiry is kept from the public.

The grand jury has devoted its time to docket cases which the government attorneys are anxious to dispose of before going gunning for bigger game. Witnesses in the beef inquiry will be called Monday.

To carry out the policy of secrecy, witnesses who heretofore have been kept in waiting on a bench outside the jury room accessible to newspaper men, will be locked in an ante-room.

The Ticklemouse
—and his Sleepyland Adventures
By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

In Gooberville

"YUM, YUM! These are certainly the best peanuts I ever ate. Guess you'd better wake up then, Willy, your Uncle Ticklemouse is at his goober eating tonight!"

Willy, wishingmouse, laughed and wished Davy and Dorfy awake. They were pleased when they saw Mr. Ticklemouse eating the peanuts they had saved for him. The sight gave Davy an idea.

"Mr. Ticklemouse, where do peanuts come from?"

"From Gooberville, Davy. 'Way down south; they're all 'goobers' down there—everybody calls them that. Well, whither away tonight, chilluns?"

Dorfy smiled and pointed to the bag of peanuts. Where to, indeed, but to Gooberville? And from the way the Ticklemouse took to the idea, anyone would have thought he was hungry for more peanuts. It was a warm summer night, and when their airship landed them in Gooberville they were mighty glad to put on the thin suits of overalls a kind planter offered them.

"And where are all the people?" Willy looked up and down the quiet street.

"All gone to the trial, I guess. Every darkey on my place was bound he'd be there."

"Whose trial?" The Ticklemouse looked interested.

"Why, the Colonel. Old Colonel Dubbie Shuck."

"What's the charge, planter?"

"Dunno, I'm sure. Just general principles, I reckon. He's a tough old nut; like to see the judge that could crack him."

The Mouse thanked him and the four hurried to the courtroom, which was crowded with all the goobers of Gooberville—peanuts white and peanuts brown—all jammed in together.

The Kernel—or Colonel, as he always wrote it—was a large, handsome old double peanut in a light ulster of pale brown linen and no hint of the dull

Chou. "Said our whole family were absolutely indigestible."

"They jes' order chuck him in de cooler," whispered a goober to Willy, "fer usin' seed no 'count long words!"

Willy grinned and said nothing. He was waiting for the next witness, Henry Clay Rawnut. Little Henry, who was coffee-colored and fat, smiled cheerfully at his questioners.

"Sho, yo' honah, ah nevah heard nuffin 'bout Marse Kuntel, 'ceptin' co'se, he nevah amounted to shucks!" Henry turned a shade lighter when the Colonel shook his fist at him. He refused to say more.

The lawyers were yelling angrily at each other, passing the lie back and forth and trying to drown the halli's voice with their chatter, when there came a sudden cry from outside. "The Baggy Man! Here comes the Baggy Man!" and the courtroom was emptied as if by magic.

"Guess we'd best hustle home, too," laughed the Ticklemouse, "or he might mistake us for goobers and chuck us in with the rest. The Baggy Man," he explained, "is the man with a bag who gathers up the goobers and ships them to the peanut stores. How they did scud and scatter when they heard that warning, to be sure!"

"And what will become of the prisoner?"

"Oh, he'll get off sent free again—he always does. I understand he deserves to be jailed this time, though—he held up one of the richest old nuts in town and forced him to shell out at the pass-word's point!"

brown under jacket most of the goobers wore. He stood proudly in the prisoner's dock, caring nothing for the frowning glances of his neighbors.

It Is Not Too Soon To Select the School In Which To Secure Your Business Training

Each swiftly passing year of the twentieth century adds to the value and the necessity of a practical education. So many new discoveries and inventions, so many new realms of land and air being opened up, so many opportunities in business and the professions, so many ways in which life can be made effective. The young man and young woman should have the education that will best nourish, develop and adapt the powers of body, mind and soul for the best use of life.

Where Are You Going to Get This Education?

It is not always easy for an inexperienced person to make the distinction between a good school and an unreliable one, but it is the duty of ALL young persons to employ such means as are feasible to ascertain the character of the institution seeking their patronage.

The Southern Wisconsin Business College

has for seven years been the leader in every advanced movement for higher and more practical education. We were the first to introduce the famous Spencerian-Chartier Shorthand, the greatest improvement made in stenography in 50 years. Today we have the exclusive right to teach this system in this section of the country.

The S. W. B. C. was the first school to offer special courses on the modern Adding Machine, Writerpress and other office devices.

The S. W. B. C. is the only school in Southern Wisconsin affiliated with the Wisconsin Commercial Educators' Association, an association whose standards are recognized by the University of Wisconsin.

The S. W. B. C. is the only school in this part of the country which refuses to employ solicitors of any kind or ask prospective students to sign a scholarship or contract of any kind.

The S. W. B. C. has the signed endorsement of the business and professional men of this community.

The S. W. B. C. is the only school that ASSURES A POSITION TO EVERY GRADUATE OR REFUNDS TUITION. This shows the great demand we have for high-grade office help.

Our Students

Our students are young men and women from the best homes of this city and community, as well as from several other States and Canada. We seek only young people of purpose, who have a desire to "get on" in the world. We take a special interest in the advancement of every student.

We Employ No Solicitors

We appeal to the intelligence and judgment of the young men and women, fathers and mothers who read our advertisements and notice the claims we make. No high-grade educational institution has to employ solicitors to get patronage. We prefer to have young people come to us by their own choice. Our President will call on you only by request.

Our Wonderful Growth

We opened our school about 7 years ago with 17 students. During this year our enrollment will be almost 250. Our attendance the past year has increased almost 33 1-3%. There is a reason. During this time we have turned out hundreds of graduates, everyone of whom secured profitable employment from the beginning. Ask them.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

HOW happy could I be with either. Were either dear chum away?
 Don't you remember that quotation beneath the old time picture of a peaceful swim in an ecstasy of interjection between two pretty girls?

I harked back to it in mind the other day when I found a letter in my mail from a girl in a similar quandry.

"I am in great perplexity and I wish you'd give me some good advice," it ran. "There are two men in love with me and I care equally for both of them. They both have many good points that I like, and I simply cannot seem to decide between them, and yet I must. What shall I do?"

Of course I can't attempt to answer a letter like that in a specific way without knowing the men and the conditions.
 Nor, even if I did know them, for that matter, I'm not quite that insane.
 But for the sake both of this young person and of any other young persons who may happen to be in a similar quandry, I want to tell a little story along that line that came to me the other day and quote a little poem of which I am very fond.

This is the story. My neighbor told it to me. She said:

"When I was a young girl I had a girl friend who was being courted by two young men (that I'll the whole neighborhood was on edge about it). Finally one day she came to me and said: 'Abby, I honestly love both of these men the same and it's come to a point where for me to marry and I'll up and marry him.'"

"And did you?" I gasped in my eagerness.
 "Certainly did not," retorted my neighbor. "I just said, 'Now you look here. If you love both these men the same you don't love either of them. When you really love anybody you know it and you feel absolutely different about him than you do about anyone else in the world.'"

She paused a moment as if her own words had stirred many memories. My neighbor is a widow.

"What happened?" I suggested.
 She came back to her story with a start. "Why just what naturally would happen. The right man came along and the girl knew him without asking anybody's advice and married him as soon as he asked her."

And lived happily ever afterward?" I questioned.
 "And lived happily ever afterward," she assented.
 So the story ends as all stories should.

And this is the poem:

Unless you can think when the song is done
 That no other is soft in its rhythm,
 Unless you can feel when loved by one
 That all men else go with him,
 Unless you can know when unpraised by his breath
 That your beauty itself wants proving,
 Unless you can say—for life—for death,
 Oh fear to call it loving.

Unless you can muse in a crowd all day
 On the absent face that fixed you,
 Unless you can love as the angels may
 With the breath of Heaven betwixt you,
 Unless you can know that his faith is fast
 Through believing and unbelieving,
 Unless you can die when the dream is past,
 Oh never call it loving.

—Elizabeth Browning.

Do you suppose anyone could feel that way about two people at once?

SMART SUMMER CHAPEAU.

Two of the smartest and most popular fabrics in the millinery world were combined in the making of above hat. The large puffed crown is lace and the brim features a wide band of black satin. Pink roses are put on at set intervals around bottom of crown, and a bow was combined in the making of above hat. The large puffed crown is lace and the brim features a wide band of black satin. Pink

The many uses that may be made of common matting endears it to the housekeeper. As a summer floor covering it is cool and neat. As a porch screen it may be made cheaper and prettier than most of those that can be bought. It makes the rug for the kitchen it-bound carefully. It wears well in comparison with carpets and prices, and has a cool, pleasant effect wherever placed.

One use to which it may be devoted is to cover porch furniture. It should be soaked for some time in warm water to render it pliable. Then the edges may be doubled under neatly without breaking the strands. For chair seats the edge should be tucked neatly and the backs should be covered with a hand woven of raffia and fastened at wide intervals with brass tacks or small brown ones run through a folded square of corn husk.

A table for use on the porch was made out of a buttered old affair which had been consigned to the attic. The legs were painted black and the top covered with green matting which was carried over the edges and tacked on the under side.

Porch cushions were made by sewing the matting into bags, leaving the selvage side open. It was then soaked all pliable and turned and stuffed with hay, or sweet grass, and the outer edge whipped over by hand. A cord of raffia would make a neat flush or the edge may be sewed with a twisted thread of the raffia.

Long cushions for the steps could be made in the same way and would be a pleasant addition to the outdoor parlor. Even the wooden boxes for holding the large porch plants could be covered with the matting if desired and suffer very little from one summer's wetting.

One of the most useful additions to porch furniture in the waste basket of generous proportions. There are so many small scraps of paper, so many burnt matches and string and wrapping paper to dispose of, that if some receptacle is not provided the daily appearance of the porch will be marred. A little ingenuity and a very small sum of money will convert the most unprepossessing of porches into a dainty reception hall which will welcome visitors with as much hospitality as the gentle hostess.

Five o'clock tea—that delightful institution of the English—may be served here. Lemonade or other food fruit drinks may be served if the tea is not desired, or the tea may be lead and served with crisp wafers.

A hammock is not an addition, if the porch is small, as it takes up too much room, but a swinging seat is a great addition to the charm of the place, as well as a great attraction to children.

On very hot days the matting screen may be set with the hose and set in the way of the hot winds which so often blow, to impart a refreshing coolness. This idea should also be applied to the summer sick room.

AN IDEAL SUPERINTENDENT.

By MARY RUSSELL.

Chicago's first woman superintendent of schools, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, has been given a public reception in one of the largest theaters in the city. In speaking of it one of the papers the next morning said:

"The reception last night had more significance than appeared on its surface. It marked a new epoch in the conduct of the Chicago schools; it signified the passing of friction and ill-feeling and the rise of a harmony whose beck has been deeply deplored by trustees and public in the past. The old feud between a strong contingent of the teaching force and the superintendent's office is now regarded as a black spot thoroughly laid.

As one of the trustees was overheard to remark to a former colleague on the board, whom he justified by chance just at the rear of Mrs. Young's box:

"You ought to be among us now. Trouble? Not a bit of it. We don't know the meaning of the word now without looking in a dictionary."

While Mrs. Young has not been superintendent very long it is not a case of a new broom sweeping clean. She has filled other positions of trust and her ability is unquestioned.

The wrangling and heart-burping that had made the Chicago schools notorious are being eliminated and by a woman!

Surely no greater demonstration could be given of woman's ability to make peace and harmony out of unpromising material! With her broad sympathy and judicial mind, her intuitive power and sound good sense, Mrs. Young has brought order out of confusion and harmony out of wretched jangling.

The children of Chicago are fortunate for the atmosphere in the superintendent's office is far-reaching. It permeates each school from dome to basement. Even the janitors are influenced by it.

Mrs. Young's rule has not been characterized by the iron-clad breaking of idols. She has not made sweeping, cyclonic efforts at house-cleaning. Quietly and earnestly, with the welfare of the child at heart, she has gone about her work in a spirit of earnest enthusiasm, which is infectious and inspiring.

Women who are broad enough to eliminate all pettiness in administering school matters exist in every community. Surely the children and their education is consigned to be women's work—but they have had very little to say about the management of educational affairs up to this time. Once in a while a woman is placed on the school board as a concession to the wishes of women, but rare are the instances when a woman is placed in the position held by Mrs. Young.

When the second city in the United States has demonstrated that it is time some of the other cities that have been puzzled as to school systems and governments sit up and take notice. Then in due educational methods will come to be a by-word and a mocking and our education will educate.

Not a Waste of Time.
 Rest is not idleness, and to lie sometimes on the grass under the trees on a summer's day listening to the murmur of the water and watching the clouds float across the sky is by no means waste of time.—Lord Avelbury.

The Irrepressible Asprate.
 "Englishmen know comparatively little about America, after all," "That's true," replied the harmlessly mendacious person. "Many of them haven't decided whether it ought to be spelled with a capital H."

CHIC DAY COSTUME.

One of the prettiest features of the season's fashions is the veiling of bodice and upper part of skirt with semi-transparent nixon, through which the design on underneath dress is distinctly seen.

A charming example of this style is white dotted black satin foulard, the tulle of black nixon edged with a band of the material. Black satin ribbon is used for the glade and band across front creating a jolting for the little jacket. Collar and cuffs are of Irish crochet lace. The sleeves are in one with the bodice, after the prevailing fashion, run to elbow, where there is a turned cuff.

A puff of nixon on a band of the material joins the upper sleeve to cuff of lace.

This idea would be equally effective carried out in dark blue or brown foulard.

The School Child's Eyes

Good eyes are next in importance to good brains. To see clearly is about as necessary as to understand clearly. Imperfect vision forces imperfect understanding.

Some children see clearly only by continued severe exertion. This causes headaches, stomach sickness, nervousness, dislike for books and stupidity.

The dull child who dislikes to study and is accounted lazy by teacher and parent is often transformed into one of the brightest by well fitted glasses.

Now, during vacation, is the time to have your children's eyes examined if you suspect the slightest trouble with them.

A SUGGESTION

How To Spend An Enjoyable Evening.

Spend the evening on the river. A trip up the river by starlight or moonlight—the moon is now at its full—is a wonderfully pleasant recreation; healthful, too. So much different from ordinary forms of recreation that it is most delightful; not only that, but the trip is full of surprises. The scenery is most beautiful, especially so at evening time, when the shadows play fantastically along the water's edge.

The trip can be made at a very nominal price in one of our boats, which are always in neat, clean condition. Under supervision of skillful pilots.

Try a trip of an evening.

Auto Livery in connection offers unlimited possibilities for outing and social good times. To professional and business men who wish to make short business trips when time is at a premium this service is particularly adapted to their needs. Drivers are experienced and capable. You who are sick can afford to BE WELL. Let me submit the PROOF

Hundreds of ailing ones, sufferers who have run the whole gamut of promised cures, patent medicines, physicians, manipulators, faith healers, etc., are passing hours of misery today from lack of knowledge or lack of belief in the most wonderful curative agent known to man.

In my work in Beloit and Janesville I have demonstrated to the believer and unbeliever alike that the Chiropractic science is the one unfailing way to rid sufferers of disease.

IF I CANNOT PROVE MY CLAIMS I AM THE LOSER.

For I tell you here and now that if you will submit yourself to the simple Chiropractic science you will be made well. Further, I demonstrate to every caller my ability to do what I claim. If you still prefer to suffer, knowing these facts, it's entirely your own business, but I ask you if you wish to be well and strong to come to me.

The Chiropractic Adjustment removes the cause of Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Lung Troubles, Heart Disease, Stomach Troubles, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Bowel Complaints, Kidney and Bladder Disease, Liver Troubles, Diseases of Women, Female Weakness, Epilepsy or Fits, Paralysis, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Eruptions, Muscular Troubles, Etc., Etc.

If you are a sufferer it is not worth a trip to my office to either prove or disprove my claims? There will be no charge for consultation and examination. Call and ask me to do as I say. I ask you to make the effort that will make you well.

Use as Pleasure Ground.
(Special to this Gazette.)

Janesville, July 15.—Hon. Burr W.

of land containing two or three acres which they thought was needed to make a better connection with the old park. Mr. Leonard was one of the truly great and good men of Janesville, and while his many acts of generosity and deeds of kindness will preserve his memory for more than one generation, this gift will stand for all time, and will be a valuable

A FORMER MUTUAL PLAYER IS SLATED

For the Presidency of the National League—John Ward Was Member of Old Time Janesville Team.

Baseball circles are agog with the report that headed by Charles Eberth of the Brooklyn team, the National League is going to turn down its new President, Thomas J. Lynch, at the next annual meeting and that efforts will be made to elect John M. Ward as head of this great organization.
Ward was a candidate for the position last year when Lynch was chosen but withdrew from the race when the contest seemed certain to go to the former umpire. There are many Janesville fans who remember Johnny Ward when he played on the old Janesville Mutuels. He came here a young man and played ball during the summer and in the winter worked in the Gazette office. Later he went east and made an enviable name for himself in the baseball world. He returned from the east several years ago but has always kept in touch with the players and if elected would doubtless give general satisfaction. His old Janesville friends would be glad to see him thus honored.

JAMES KAYE GIVEN PARDON ON SUNDAY

Former Edgerton Pastor in Jail Convicted of Counterfeiting Given Freedom by President.

President Taft has granted a pardon to take effect July 17, the day his term would expire, to the Rev.
James R. Kaye, who is now serving a term of six months in the Penitentiary house of correction for making molds in the similitude of silver coin.

Kaye had filled pupils in Presbyterian churches at Oak Park, Chicago, and Lincoln, Ill., and some years ago was at Edgerton. While at Oak Park to increase his Sunday school attendance, he conceived the idea of offering medals to the children.

In experimenting with a view to making the medals he made plaster molds, using coins as a model. The experiment was unsuccessful and the molds were thrown away. Subsequently they were found and Mr. Kaye was arrested for violating the law.
He was twice tried, the first time being sentenced to two years. This was reduced to six months at a second trial.

ROBERT HOCKETT TO HAVE

Twenty-seven Foot Craft, Equipped

Horn.

Robert Hockett is to command one of the largest launches on the river.
The craft is being constructed by Grover Horn and will be 27 feet in length, with a 12 horse-power engine and a potential speed of from 12 to 11 miles an hour.

Misplaced Reliance.
"It was a great mistake," sighed the man who was sued for breach of promise, "What do you mean?" "I used a non de plume in my literary work instead of disguising my identity in my love letters."

The Children of Mexico.
The Mexican children are deligh-tfully interesting. Courtesy with them seems to be ingrained. As soon as they can talk they become Chesters-fields, while their innate kindness prompts them to many a delicate attention.

FINE PLACE GIVEN TO A. B. CAMMERER

Former Janesville Boy Appointed
Clerk of Commission of Fine Arts
at Washington, D. C.

A. B. Cammerer of Washington, D. C., a former Janesville young man, has been appointed clerk of the commission of fine arts, the body of men appointed by President Taft, under the authorization of congress, to pass upon building and statues in the capital. The aim of the commission is to do all in its power to bring about the artistic development of the city. Mr. Cammerer is the son of Mrs. F. Cammerer, residing at 611 South Jackson street, and before his removal to Washington was employed in the office of the Parker Pen company. He is a senior at Georgetown University law school and shortly before his appointment as clerk to the commission of fine arts was acting as private stenographer to A. Platt Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury. His present position with the commission of fine arts is one of the most acceptable positions in the classified service.

Sturgeon Swims Atlantic.
The American sturgeon is a distinct species and is captured on Lakes Michigan and Erie, where it is handicked, but below the falls of Niagara he same species occurs and passes to the sea. It is recorded, with every probability of truth, that a specimen of this species was captured some years ago in the Fifth of May, having crossed the Atlantic.

A Little Mound.
By the side of a little sandy mound stands a man, old, stoop-shouldered and with snowy locks. No sound disturb the evening's quietness save the cooing of a mourning dove. But suddenly a flat clench and the aforementioned man is heard to exclaim:
"Confound that wood-chuck!"—Judge.

DR. TURBIN
Why He Comes To Janesville

It is an undisputed fact that in every community there are many cases of chronic diseases that are beyond the skill of regular practitioners, not because our home physicians are incompetent or unsuccessful, but because their whole time is occupied attending acute cases. That is the reason Dr. Turbin visits our city. He has treated thousands of cases in Wisconsin and by his unfailing success has established a reputation unequalled by any Specialist in the state. His fame is world wide and he is renoued for the many cures he has made where others failed.

Don't put off seeing the doctor, as it costs nothing to consult him and get a positive and complete description of your disease and learn the cause of it. You may rest assured of honorable treatment and positive relief, if the doctor accepts your case for treatment.

His monthly visit to our city will be Monday, July 18th, at the New Myers Hotel.
